Text

Liz and her family want to try Moroccan couscous. So, I need to write my shopping list. I have some tomatoes, some onions and some carrots. I have some pumpkin, too, but I don't have any turnips. I don't have any courgettes, either. As for meat, there is some chicken in the fridge, but Chris doesn't like chicken. So I need to go to the butcher's to buy some beef.

I also need some spices. I have some cumin and some saffron, but there isn't any pepper in the spice rack.

I think this is all I need for couscous. Oh, wait! I don't have any chickpeas. I love chickpeas in couscous.

Now my shopping list is ready.

Text

Hi! I'm Jane. This is my diet:
 For breakfast, I sometimes have a glass of orange juice with cereal and milk, and a piece of fruit. When I am hungry, I have a piece of toast, with a little butter and jam on it. Sometimes I have scrambled eggs. I usually prepare my omelet with a little cheese and a few mushrooms on it.

I usually have lunch at work. Very often, it is a sandwich with turkey or cheese and lettuce and tomatoes. Sometimes I spread a little mayonnaise on the bread. I rarely have peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. For dessert, I usually take an apple, a few strawberries, or grapes.

Dinner is my big meal. I usually have steaks or hamburgers with a salad, but I sometimes have chicken with a vegetable like broccoli or potatoes. My evening dessert is usually ice-cream. I never drink soda; tea with a little milk is my favourite drink.
